

Susan Cutinha

Group Head – Careers & Development | Eviden

Susan is currently the Group Head of Careers & Development, for Eviden, an Atos business. She comes with over 20 years of experience in the field of People Development, specializing in learning and capability development. Her strength comes from the close collaboration that she has been able to establish to align development of talents with business strategy and customer demands.

Susan has been instrumental in enabling Atos Syntel (now part of Eviden) build a future relevant organization through workforce transformation. She was an integral part of the team that designed, developed, and delivered a transformation project which promotes employees as the CEO of their career. In her current role, she works to create an ecosystem where people can grow to build a meaningful career, while delivering human centric and innovative solutions for our customers. Her role today, extends around Learning & Development, Talent Identification & Succession Planning, Leadership development & Acceleration and Career Frameworks. Having started her career in the technology space, she is passionate about enhancing the employee experience through data and digitization.

She is a postgraduate in Computer Applications, and has completed her executive education from IIM-B and HEC-Paris. She is also a master practitioner of Neuro Linguistic Programming, an area that she continues to learn about and practice as well. Susan enjoys reading and music and is an absolute foodie.
